DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gehrman et al (5008992) in view of Canton (4829757).

Gehrman teaches a method for producing a composite yarn (Figure 1) comprising at least one stretched elastic yarn (14) covered with at least one textured multifilament covering yarn (1), and automatically replacing spools of elastic yarn (inherent of process, elastic yarn must be replaced at some point), comprising providing a first spool of a first elastic yarn and feeding the first yarn to an interlacing jet (19), where it is covered with the covering yarn to produce a composite yarn which is wound on a cop (24). While Gehrman essentially teaches the invention as detailed, he fails to specifically teach how the spools are replaced. Canton teaches us that it is well known to replace bobbins by stopping the machine and performing a piecing up process which would comprise stopping feeding, replacing the working position spool with a standby spool, and restarting the apparatus (taught as well known; his invention intends to eliminate this need). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to utilize the method as taught as well known by Canton in the process of Gehrman, so as to more exactly control the quality of the elastic yarn, and eliminate a knot from the first spool, to the second spool. Likewise, it would have been obvious to replace the winding cop while the machine was stopped, so as to eliminate the need for multiple machine stops, which waste time and money.

Double Patenting

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

5. Claims 1-45 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-38 of copending Application No. 10/531157. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because each teaches a method and apparatus for producing a composite stretch yarn.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Coro (6393817), Bakker et al (6880212), Bakker et al (6848151), Proctor (5568719), Maccabruni et al (20060042220), Zhu (6880319), Mori (6370858), and Strachan (3940917) all teach what is well known in the art.
